

BATTLE LINES ON RIGA FRONT WIDEN

MITAU, Russia, Oct. 16.—As the battle in the Riga district continues with intense fighting, the battle line is extending. Colonel Bernhardt's German troops widened their fighting zone Tuesday when they captured Ost, Dvinsk, and Boldera, according to advices received here. Lithuanian troops are holding their positions on the other side of the Dvina river, north of Riga. The Germans are not answering the cannonading, although the Lithuanians continue heavy bombardment of the German positions. The Germans repulsed a Lithuanian attack with armored cars. Lithuanian forces have gone to the aid of the Lithuanians and are reported to be concentrating at Friedland, 46 miles southeast of Riga. Their arrival endangers the German flank from the east.

Col. Edward W. Ryan, Scranton, Pa., American Red Cross commissioner for western Russia, has not yet returned from Riga, but it is believed he is safe.

The marriage of Miss Lulista A. Leland, daughter of Charles H. Leland, of New York, and Dr. Leland Eggleston Cofer, health officer of the port of New York, was solemnized yesterday in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York. It came as a surprise as no announcement of the engagement had been made. Mr. Leland and Miss Leland, sister of the bride, and a few friends attended the ceremony, which was performed in St. Columba's chapel by the Rev. Howard Robbins, the dean. There was no reception.

Dr. Cofer is a native of Virginia, and an alumnus of the Harvard Medical School. He served several years in the medical corps of the navy, was at one time assistant surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, and lived in Washington for several years. His bride has been a leader in philanthropic enterprises in New York for several years, and was one of the organizers of the New York committee for the fatherless children of France.

Miss Elizabeth Fishback Weds. A wedding of wide local interest was that of Miss Jane Elizabeth Fishback and Roscoe Harold Allemen, which took place last night in St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Both bride and bridegroom belong to well-known resident families. Miss Fishback is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Fishback, and Mr. Allemen the only son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Allemen. John S. Allemen, who died several years ago, was a member of the bar of Pennsylvania and of the District of Columbia. The bridegroom's grandfather was the venerable Dr. Samuel Dömer, for twenty-six years pastor of St. Paul's, and in this same church Dr. Dömer performed the marriage ceremony for Mr. Allemen's parents.

The decorations last night were of rare beauty, the pulpit and chancel being banked with palms and chrysanthemums, and the chancel railing being tastefully decorated with autumn leaves. The ceremony was witnessed by a company of friends who occupied every available seat in this historic church.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. John T. Huddle, D. D., pastor of the church; and the musical program preceding and during the ceremony was rendered on the great organ by Miss Louie Kincer, the talented organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a beautiful gown of white satin, draped in chiffon and embroidered in pearls. The veil was of French tulle, fastened with a coronet of orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower of white roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Margaret Fishback, cousin of the bride. She was most becomingly gowned in orchid colored satin, with ostrich trimmings of the same shade, draped with corded chiffon. She carried a bouquet matching the tones of her dress.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gertrude M. Gooker, Miss Matilda Haney, Miss Elizabeth Magruder, and Miss Margaret Peckham. They wore turquoise blue satin, trimmed with silver lace and satin drapery. Their bouquets bore the predominant tints of their gowns. Harry T. Dömer was best man, and the ushers included John Swartzell, William Seay, Cyrus Mantz, and Julian C. Hammack.

The wedding was followed by a reception at the residence of the bride. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Freyman, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Astell, of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Astell, of New York; Mrs. Nelson Brinkerhoff, of Melmore, Ohio; Miss Elizabeth Fishback, of New York, and Dr. and Mrs. Harry M. Thompson, of Pueblo, Col. Mr. and Mrs. Allemen left later in the evening for their honeymoon, the bride's going-away gown being of blue serge and black satin, with seal coat and pressed beaver hat. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Allemen will be at home to their friends after November 15, 1329 Belmont street.
